Greetings from the Chancellor

Welcome to the University System of Maryland. We are 12 institutions, three regional centers, and more than 200,000 people—students, faculty, and staff—dedicated to improving lives and strengthening communities across the state and around the world.

Each of our institutions is unique—in the students they serve and the missions to which they pledge themselves. We are powerful not despite this diversity but because of it—because we can join our different assets, expertise, and passions to expand the system’s reach and amplify our impact.

In these pages, you’ll see how each institution contributes to the USM’s strength. I’m so glad you’re getting to know us better.
